SCALING IT OPERATIONS WITHOUT SCALING HEADCOUNT

June 18, 2026

5:30 PM-9:00 PM

Eastern Time

Scaling IT operations has traditionally meant scaling teams. In today's cloud-first environments, that model no longer holds. Increasing system complexity, rising incident volume, and persistent alert noise are outpacing even the most experienced teams. This executive dinner will examine how organizations are rethinking this model. By leveraging AI to prevent incidents, accelerate resolution, and continuously optimize operations, enterprises are beginning to scale outcomes without scaling headcount. At the center of this shift is the emergence of the Production Ops Agent — a new approach that replaces manual investigation with real-time, autonomous analysis across the full operational lifecycle.
