FROM SYSTEMS TO AGENTS. WILL YOUR ENTERPRISE RUN ITSELF FIRST?

October 08, 2026

5:30 PM-9:00 PM

Eastern Time

Every enterprise is quietly wrestling with the burden of constant oversight. We designed software to follow instructions, but today the speed of business requires environments that can think, adapt, and learn alongside us. Whether you manage supply chains, physical operations, or complex digital networks, the real shift is moving from static tools to self-steering systems. When you pair digital twins and smart agentic workflows with human vision, you liberate your people from reactive firefighting and give your organization room to truly invent. Pull up a chair and join a selected group of executive peers over a private dinner to explore how autonomous operations are changing the quiet rhythm of leadership, building faster momentum, and shaping the future of competitive edge.
